

1982-83
ANNUAL REPORT

JAPANESE AMERICAN
SERVICE COMMITTEE OF CHICAGO

President's Message

At our 36th Annual Meeting held on June 26, 1983, Board member and Master of Ceremonies Tom Mura remarked that all three speakers on the program mentioned that our agency had ended its fiscal year 1982-83 with a budget surplus of $48,000.

Tom was referring to Finance Chairman Hiroshi Nakano, Executive Director Masaru Nambu, and myself, and the emphasis we all made on the surplus for the year. As many people know, 1982 was a year of considerable financial problems that affected not only the American families and social welfare agencies, but also multinational organizations with assets in the billion dollar figures.

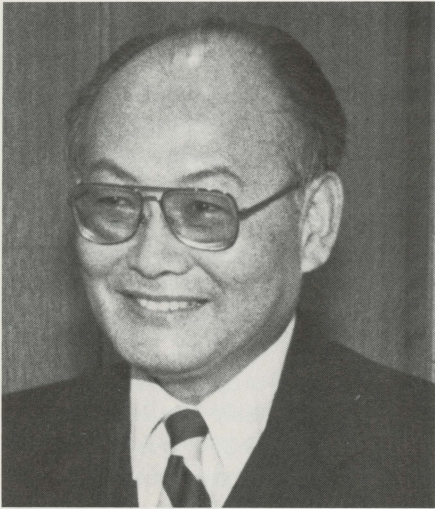

The fact that the JASC was able to generate enough income over expenses must be credited to several sources: First, Executive Director Masaru Nambu and his dedicated staff who voluntarily took a deferment on their salary increment, knowing our financial situation. Secondly, the persistent efforts of the Development Department to raise funds from outside sources, such as foundations and corporations.

Thirdly, the volunteer members of the Board of Directors who manned critical committees, not only to raise much needed funds but to organize and promote programs to serve our community people. Our Board, increased by several sensitive and capable Sansei members, has been of great service in working with other volunteers and the JASC staff. The JASC has long had the reputation of being the most prestigious organization in our community and has been very fortunate in being able to tap some of the most capable people to serve on our Board. Lastly, I must acknowledge the JASC lifeblood, the hundreds of community volunteers who willingly helped with our various fund-raising programs and donated their time and material goods.

From the very beginning, service to our community was our main goal. This was accomplished by providing meeting rooms and facilities to community organizations; promoting activities such as the successful Health Fair and Career Conference; retirement and investment seminars and symposiums; bringing together health and hospital officials to discuss methods for selecting nursing homes; and instituting day care and nutrition programs for senior citizens, and homemakers for invalids in their homes.

Finally, during the coming year, the JASC will be undertaking, probably our most challenging task—the search for and acquisition of a Nikkei Home for the Elderly, culminating more than five years of planning and research. This, no doubt, will be our agency's most difficult project, yet one that is now almost a necessity, not just for the Issei but for the Nisei as well. Still, as in the past, we are optimistic and hope that our faithful supporters, our members and community people, will once again come to the forefront to help us attain this worthwhile goal.

—Arthur T. Morimitsu

Executive Director's Report

This year has been a period mixed with activities and reflection, both of which will undoubtedly make significant impacts in the future course of the Japanese American Service Committee.

The JASC has been recognized as a unique ethnic social service agency which provides comprehensive services for the elderly. A variety of services have been designed and offered primarily to meet the existing and increasing needs of Isseis. However, as the number of Isseis began to diminish, and a majority of Niseis continue to advance in age, we have been preparing programs for Niseis while continuing to meet the increasing needs of Isseis whose average age is over 80 years.

After the initial success of the Nisei Retirement Seminars in May, 1982, the JASC launched a series of seminars for Niseis throughout the year. This attempt has been met with enthusiasm and ready response from the target population. The JASC plans to continue and further expand its programs for Niseis.

The JASC was keenly aware that, in a few years, many Issei parents and Nisei children will face the problem of nursing home care. Upon the successful completion of Heiwa Terrace, an ad hoc committee was formed to study and provide certain recommendations regarding the nursing needs of our elderly. As a result, the JASC officially organized a Nursing Home Exploratory Committee this year that has been actively researching the possibility of having the JASC provide nursing home service. The overwhelmingly enthusiastic and supportive responses to the questionnaires which were sent out to the entire Midwest Japanese communities have indicated the apparent need for such a facility, and have reaffirmed the sense of direction that the JASC has envisioned on behalf of the Japanese community. The JASC will continue to pursue this plan in order that the elderly may have a home where they can receive adequate care.

The JASC has always been sensitive to the changing needs of its immediate community and the larger community which surrounds the ethnic enclave. Our recent federal fund cuts and increasing competition for limited grants from foundations and corporations, have added to the rising awareness that the JASC must continue to prioritize a wide range of changing needs in the community, and endeavor to meet them in a planned service delivery system. Therefore, the JASC Board formed a Long Range Planning Committee for the purpose of establishing five year plans. The Board and the staff committees have been dealing with the basic issues such as mission statement, environmental analysis, and goals and objectives which will greatly affect the services and financial operation of the JASC in coming decades.

The Development Department, which was created with a grant from The Chicago Community Trust, is completing its second year of operation. The department has contributed to stabilizing the agency's financial operation, and will continue to vigorously seek fundings and grants from outside the Japanese Community to improve the financial resources of the JASC.

The JASC could not enjoy its reputation without the numerous volunteers who have believed in an organization such as the JASC and provided their energy, time, and professional skills. Almost everything the JASC does has been touched by the volunteers; every fund-raising event, nutrition program, adult day care center activities, and special events such as the Career Conference, Blood Assurance Program, and Health Fair. We have been privileged to receive the assistance of more than 100 volunteers just for social service programs throughout the year.

It is my privilege to report that in spite of the harsh reality of tight funding and hard economic times, which make it difficult to increase financial support, the JASC completed FY 1983 with a surplus. I am profoundly grateful to many individuals throughout the year who so generously contributed to the work of this agency; and to the dedicated and willing staff members performing so conscientiously while enduring their second mile of sacrificing their annual increment so that services for the community may be continued without curtailment.

Development/Public Relations

The efforts of the Development/Public Relations Department to raise money from "outside" sources began to pay off as it approached completion of the two-year start-up period funded by The Chicago Community Trust.

In the past year, the department realized an income of $38,800 from corporate, public, and family foundations, as well as from selected individual donors—an amount matching the sum that has come in from outside sources during the last decade.

A total of 68 specially targeted proposals and letters were submitted to a variety of possible funding sources. Eight resulted in grants totaling $33,250; less than 9 per cent was for operating budget while more than 91 per cent was designated for specified purposes. Operating budget monies came from the American Hospital Supply Corporation Foundation, Chicago Sun-Times Charity Trust, and The Forest Fund; monies for specified projects included a food festival assistance grant from Mayor Jane M. Byrne, a grant from the Robert R. McCormick Charitable Trust for a bilingual social worker, a partial assistant grant from the Harris Bank Foundation toward renovation of the JASC building, and partial assistance grants from Borg-Warner Corporation Foundation and The Esmark Foundation toward a program to help Asian elderly qualify for employment.

A public relations strategy to enlarge the scope of fund-raising potential was the launching of a series of businessmen's luncheon meetings at JASC headquarters. An additional $5,500 was received as the result of JASC's outreach to businesses, industries, and financial institutions in the vicinity of the agency headquarters, minority owned businesses, financially successful members of the Japanese American community, and operating budget contributions from two companies introduced by a businessman member of the JASC Board of Directors.

Careful and time-consuming preparation has preceded the active solicitation of funds, with the Department spending many hours in researching prospective donors, keeping up-to-date on fund-raising techniques, and developing strategies. The Department has worked closely with and consulted the social service and workshop staffs, and the executive director in developing grant proposals.

To educate prospective contributors and create a favorable climate for fund-raising, the Department also devotes much of its efforts to public relations and publicity services. It communicates directly with JASC members through the quarterly newsletter, annual report, and other promotional mailing pieces; and reaches the general public through local newspapers, TV and radio, speakers at community group meetings, and tours of the agency.

No longer funded by The Chicago Community Trust, but expecting that the new Department will raise increasingly larger sums of money, the JASC Board of Directors sanctioned the continuation of the Department.

Social Service

The JASC's Social Service department provides a variety of services to the general community. This comprehensive program is designed to meet the general needs and interests of our clients. The staff of 22 includes social workers, chore housekeepers, groupworkers, day care workers, teachers, aides, a nurse, and a driver. Under the direction of the staff, more than 80 volunteers enable the department to carry out its many programs, which are funded by the United Way of Metropolitan Chicago, the Office for Senior Citizens and Handicapped, the Illinois Arts Council, and the Community Care Programs of the Illinois Department on Aging.

Casework is designed to offer direct guidance and assistance for an individual to cope with problems through the activities of planning, coordinating, and mobilizing services to meet needs that challenge the individual's personal health and social functioning. Casework involves individual, family, and group counseling; financial and health management, nutrition guidance, information and referral, advocacy, emergency service, immigration and naturalization, translation and interpretation, and direct services.

Social workers made 5,646 contacts with clients over the past year; 3,035 with Isseis, 976 with Niseis, 33 with Sanseis, 314 with other Japanese, 55 with Japanese Nationals, 927 with other Asians, and 309 with others.

Group counseling is offered at Heiwa Terrace.

Chore Housekeeping Service is designed to provide aid in household tasks, and general assistance to older persons in the activities of daily living to enable them to maintain their living in an independent manner. Services include cleaning, shopping, laundry, food preparation, grooming, personal care, nutrition guidance, and hygiene education.

Through Chore Housekeeping arrangements can be made for volunteers to provide escort service; and heavy chore service (such as moving the furniture or washing the windows).

Chore housekeepers made 4,606 home visits in the past year as we served 71 Isseis, 22 Niseis, 1 Sansei, 2 other Japanese, 2 Japanese Nationals, 3 other Asians, and 48 others. A total of 4,632 telephone contacts were also made.

The high quality of services has been recognized by many individuals and the public agencies.

Group Services are planned to serve a wide age range with educational and cultural programs. Last year's activities included classes in multi-leveled Japanese language programs, penji, karuta-kai, minyo, tsumami-e, kaminingyo, ceramics, needlepoint, tai-chi, cooking demonstrations and workshops, bingo games, movies, children's summer programs, and special Japanese cultural displays and observances.

Recognizing that Isseis are becoming fewer in number and that growing numbers of Niseis are approaching retirement age, the JASC continued its program directed to satisfying the interests, needs, and concerns of the Nisei population. While continuing to fulfill the needs of the Isseis, the JASC conducted a variety of meaningful, in-depth sessions for men and women approaching retirement age or considering retirement.

Health related projects included monthly blood pressure check-up, weekly eye and dental clinics, glaucoma screening, flu shots, diabetes testing, and an all-day health fair.

Our nutrition site program served 14,939 meals to senior citizens. Meals on wheels is a home-delivered meals program for homebound seniors, age 60 and over, who received a hot, balanced meal six days a week; our volunteers delivered 3,354 such meals during the year. All in all, a total of 25,767 Issei, Nisei, Sansei, and others attended our group service programs.

Adult Day Care. The Adult Day Care program promotes the physical and mental well-being of older adults through a full range of coordinated services in a supervised group setting. A wheelchair-equipped van transports clients to the center each weekday. Care is given to maintain a balance of opportunities for socialization, activities, and rest. Clients enjoy a wide range of activities and special events, including field trips, ceramics, exercise, games, speakers, and monthly field trips for lunch. The noon meal and snack breaks provide needed nutrition and the social opportunity to share food together. The social service and nursing staffs develop a care plan for each client and monitor clients on an ongoing basis.

Adult Day Care is one of JASC's newest and most innovative services. Working together, the client, family, and staff make it possible for the older adults to remain in their homes at the highest functional level. The program served 39 clients; 3,608 units or days of service were provided, with Isseis utilizing a majority of the service. The average daily attendance was 14 clients.

Work Center

Three combined factors made it possible for the Work Center to achieve its anticipated goal for FY 1983 — despite the adverse condition of the national economy, which affected our number of subcontract assignments from business and industry:

(1) A big job order from a company that kept us very busy for a long time (2) Hiring better qualified staff, including a production coordinator who supervises the day-to-day floor operation of the Workshop, and (3) Improvement of the Workshop's operational system.

Of the 100 employees registered in the Work Center, 55 of them are seniors—including 24 Isseis, 6 Niseis, 21 Koreans; and the others are Chinese, Indo-Chinese, and Filipinos. The remaining 45 are emotionally disabled Asians and non-Asians.

With approval of The Commission On Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities (CARF), the JASC Work Center is providing three different kinds of services:

1) In the Senior Citizens Work Program, elderly Japanese Americans and other Asians work from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily on all kinds of subcontract jobs coming from Chicago metropolitan area manufacturing firms. This working environment keeps the elderly mentally and physically alert and active, provides them with a social outlet, and prevents them from mental and physical depression. Support for this program comes mainly from the Japanese American community in Chicago, except for a small amount of support from United Way.

2) The Long Term Rehabilitation Program for the emotionally disabled is funded mainly by the Illinois State Department of Mental Health. Purpose of the program is to give the institutionalized, emotionally disabled an opportunity to establish motivation for work and work habit, develop work skills that may qualify them for employment in the competitive job market, and get them into a normal social life.

3) The Vocational Evaluation Program is certified and sponsored by the Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Service (IDORS), for vocational testing and evaluations. The clients who are endorsed by IDORS come to this program to be evaluated and tested for their abilities and potentialities by the staff evaluators in an evaluation room that is designed and furnished for that purpose.

As stated in the CARF "Certificate of Accreditation," the JASC facility "is recognized for maintaining as its primary objective the rehabilitation of handicapped individuals and for providing high quality services through integrated, coordinated, and individualized programs in Vocational Development and Sheltered Employment."
